Welcome to April's issue of the Advertiser Magazine

Spring is finally here. I just love this time of year when the weather is warmer and the evenings are longer. There is so much to look forward to. Although, at the time of writing, we are still trying to get over the St. Patricks celebrations which were followed a week later by the birthday celebrations of our very own Andrew.

This month we have Easter. Easter Sunday falls on the 9th of April this year. In Andalucia the Thursday prior to Easter (Maundy Thursday) and Good Friday are both bank holidays. Easter Monday, unlike much of northern Europe, is a regular working day.

Following Easter, we have the famous Garrucha Tapas Trail which runs from the 14th - 23rd of April which is always lots of fun and, we find, a great incentive to try bars and restaurants that we might not usually frequent!

Thank you as always to our amazing contributors, loyal advertisers and of course, you, our readers.

Wishing you all a great Easter!!

Andrew & Cheryl

LifeStyle

Sit down, it's time for the talk!

We need to talk about the birds and bees – but not the kind of birds and bees that require “the talk” with your kids! No, we’re talking about Spring Time!

The cold weather is done and dusted, all 2 weeks of it this year. Friends and family are dropping in again to visit. The wind is blowing and taking with it thousands of miniscule bits of pollen to ensure we’ve all got hay-fever for days on end! What a great time of year.

EASTER PARADES

The big cities all have their fantastic Easter parades and most towns around our area also have several parades that you can watch and experience. The brother and sisterhoods practise for months in preparation and many spectators will become quite emotional. It's a little tradition of mine to count how many young men are crying as the float with a statue walks past, but I'm insensitive like that, as my wife regularly tells me.

You'll be able to find when the parades are on as well as the route they take, online. The local town hall websites are usually your best source of information or their FB pages. When I first arrived in Spain, I found a great spot to sit, waited patiently for hours for the parade to go past, only to realize too late that I was on the wrong street, in the wrong zone.

WALKIES?!

Now that the weather is better, it's a great time to try out the many, many walking trails all over the area. There's literally a walk for every walking level. One of my favourite walks with the kids and dog is in front of Macenas, to the right of 'Fortaleza de Macenas'.

It's a light casual walk that leads to 'Torre del Pirulico', which in itself is a great little place to explore. Or you can do the extended walk from next to Hotel Best Indalo at the end of Mojácar. Who knows, you may even come across a local native chameleon, but you'll need some luck and good eyes. No, you can't keep it as a pet!

If you're feeling energetic, there's a high road which has you going up and down steep sections, or you can continue on past the Torre, but I wouldn't know having never felt energetic enough to continue. You can almost just create your own path in some places, although everyone with any amount of responsibility suggests this is a bad idea.

Of course, there are the gentle walks along the promenades that run next to the beaches or stroll down the unknowns of a dry river bed (rambla). Or a hike up any of the local hills will have you feeling like you can accomplish more than you could before hiking, including the hike! Maybe you'll even be able to walk up the steps in Mojácar old town instead of taking the lift! Yes, I saw you!

Thanks for all the supportive emails about last month's article. I'm glad to see there's still a lot of support for people using camper vans in both free and paid parking.

If you have any feedback for me, to dispute, argue, agree, support, harass or to pinch, flick me an email bradh_os@hotmail.com

Blue Sea Villas (BSV) has been a renowned name in the property rental industry in Mojácar since its inception in 2004. BSV was acquired by Wendy Lester in 2015, who has been driving its growth and expansion.

We are proud to announce that our company has now moved to a new and larger premises located at 91 Paseo del Mediterraneo. This is a significant milestone for our team, and we would like to celebrate this occasion with our esteemed clients and partners.

Our new office is not just larger, but it has been designed to provide a modern, comfortable and welcoming space to our clients. We believe that buying, selling or renting a property is not just a transaction, but it's a relationship. Therefore, we want our clients to feel at home when they visit us.

Our advisors are always on hand to listen, understand and guide you through the process of finding the perfect property for your needs.

In addition to our traditional services, we are excited to announce the opening of our home design centre. Our new centre is designed to provide our clients with a one-stop solution for all their property-related needs.

Our team of experts will assist you in creating the kitchen, bathroom or landscape garden of your dreams. We understand that refurbishing your home can be a daunting task, but with our team's support, we aim to make it a hassle-free and enjoyable experience.

We are proud to announce that we are exclusive agents for the international brand, Leroy Merlin. They provide quality products and services, and all work undertaken and guaranteed by them. (Showroom coming soon!)

We are confident that our new premises and services will enhance our clients' experience with us. Our advisors are passionate about their work and are committed to providing our clients with the best service possible. Our goal is to create a long-lasting relationship with our clients and partners, and we believe that our new premises and services will help us achieve that.

We are also expanding our range of properties for both sale and rental, whether for short or long-term stays. Our team of advisors are always on the lookout for new properties to add to our portfolio. If you are looking to sell or rent your property, we would love to hear from you. Our team will provide you with a realistic valuation and assist you in finding the right buyer or tenant for your property.

At BSV, we value our clients and partners, and we believe that our success is based on their satisfaction. We are grateful for the trust and confidence that our clients have shown in us over the years, and we promise to continue providing them with the best service possible. We believe that our new premises and services will help us take our business to new heights.

We invite you to visit us at our new office at 91 Paseo del Mediterraneo or call us on 950478643 or 634325057 to sell or rent your property. You can also make an appointment with our advisors to discuss the refurbishment of your home. We are looking forward to welcoming you to our new office and providing you with the best service possible.

In conclusion, we would like to thank our clients, partners, and the community of Mojácar for their support and trust. We believe that our new premises and services will help us provide them with an even better experience with us. We are excited about the future, and we hope to continue being the leading property rentals and sales agent in Mojácar.

Sincerely, Wendy Lester and team BSV

GARDEN SNIPPETS

by Jane Thomas

The Gardener's Menace

Being a complete novice at tackling a particularly large area of weeds and having four cats to keep safe from any harmful chemicals, I took to researching the best and safest way to kill weeds that seem to thrive in my garden.

I looked at various reviews and came across one that many said worked well and was safe, (if not a little smelly) for all living beings but, particularly my four legged tribe.

The solution of white vinegar, salt and a good dose of washing up liquid.

So with a pressure sprayer and said items I mixed up a batch and got to work on the bane of most gardeners lives.

To make the weed killer, you will need:

- 1 gallon of white vinegar
- 1 cup table salt
- 1 tbsp washing up liquid (Fairy or good old Mercadona brand)

Once the areas were sprayed, I would definitely say that it worked well. Drying out and killing even the hardest of weeds over the course of about a week, but a word of caution, like any weed killer this one is not choosy on the plants it kills off. So watch your aim people!

One other thing I would like to add, is any chemical you use can be toxic and can destroy the soil's microbiome. So again, it's best to try and aim directly on the weed not the ground.

The only other way to stop weeds growing is to get down and pull them out, its back-breaking work and if like me, you've have a pulled rib muscle, it's one I wouldn't suggest trying as I found out one weekend recently. But remember, the younger the weed the easier it is to pull it out.

Happy Easter everyone and enjoy your gardening.

Bon Appetit

Over the last few weeks it has been a joy to see all the beautiful almond blossom in full bloom and it got me thinking about almond recipes. So it's all baking this month and perfect for making some Easter treats.

ALMOND & ORANGE BISCOTTI

There are quite a few steps to this but it is straight forward and well worth the effort!
Makes 30

Ingredients:

60g candied peel
2 tbsp amaretto
110g caster sugar
80g butter
2 eggs lightly beaten
1 1/2 oranges zested
150g plain flour
1/4 tsp salt
80g whole skinned almonds

Method:

In a pan bring the candied peel and 1 tablespoon of the amaretto to a boil. Remove from the heat and leave to steep for 1 hour before draining. Meanwhile cream the sugar and butter then gradually add the beaten eggs. Add the remaining tablespoon of Amaretto and orange zest and stir. Sift the flour & salt into a separate bowl before folding into the biscotti mix. Finally stir in the drained peel & almonds. Line a large baking tray with greaseproof paper and dust with flour. Transfer the biscotti mix to the tray and chill for 30 minutes. Preheat the oven to 170. Remove the tray from the fridge and using your hands shape the dough into a 25cm log. Bake for 20 minutes then set aside to cool. Meanwhile reduce the oven temp to 130. Using a serrated knife cut the cooled log into 1cm thick slices and lay cut side down on the lined baking tray and cook for a further 40 minutes or until crisp. Leave to cool on a wire rack.

ALMOND MACAROONS

(Makes 12)

Ingredients:

4 Egg Whites
250g Caster Sugar
300g ground almonds
A few drops of almond essence
12 Whole Almonds

Method:

Beat the egg whites with an electric mixer until stiff. Then add a spoonful of sugar one at a time until the mixture is nice and glossy and a few drops of almond essence then stir in the ground almonds.

Line a large baking tray with baking parchment and place a tablespoon of the mixture on the baking tray and flatten slightly. Press a whole almond into the middle and bake for 15mins at 180°.

ALMOND CAKE

Ingredients:

250g Butter
250g Marzipan
300g Caster Sugar
150g Self-raising Flour
6 Eggs
To decorate, glaze icing and flaked almonds

Method:

Mix the marzipan, butter and sugar together using either the beater attachments on a mixer or a wooden spoon and some elbow grease!

Add the eggs one at a time and beat in.

Sift the flour and fold into the mixture.

Transfer to a lined 10 inch spring form baking tin and bake in a preheated oven at 170° for 45 minutes or until golden and risen. Once cooled, remove from tin and drizzle with glaze icing and flaked almonds.

And finally, if you love to snack on almonds, try toasting a few with some sea salt

TOASTED SEA SALT ALMONDS

Add 2 teaspoons of vegetable oil to a medium frying pan and heat for a couple of minutes. Add half a bag of almonds and a good sprinkle of sea salt and cook on a medium to high heat for a few minutes tossing the almonds continually until they are a nice dark golden colour. Transfer to a bowl and serve warm.

What's the problem

At the Advertiser magazine, we recognise that everyone needs to reach out for advice now and then. Seeking the help of someone who can not only offer a completely objective point of view but, is also qualified to advise you, may not always be possible.

We are delighted to be able to offer the services of a qualified counsellor and psychotherapist, Theresa Wood, to answer any of our readers issues or problems.

Dear Theresa

My Mother is never satisfied no matter what I do for her. I'm one of four siblings. Each one of us do our best to keep her happy, but she constantly bad mouths us to one another. We bring her to the shops and her Doctors appointments, but she always has a complaint. I was talking to my siblings and one of my sisters said she is wondering what she says to other people about us, neighbours and other family members. Is there anything you would recommend?

Monica

We posted this question on a confidential facebook group.
The answers we received were varied.
Here are some of them...

Firstly, don't worry about what mum may say to others unless it's said directly and secondly there will be a root reason why she complains you may never get to the bottom of. She gave birth to you all and as long as you're doing what you want to for her out of love rather than any loyalty I'd continue. She's your mum so unless she's been directly abusive to any of you in her life now's the time to support her. Let the criticism go over your head unless it's really nasty. She won't be with you forever and she changed your nappies as kids.

Netty

Hi Monica

It sounds like you are beating your head against a brick wall. Perhaps your Mother feels that if she's not complaining that she will be abandoned by you all. Maybe a joint approach by you and your siblings might help. You could ask her together if she feels that you are not doing enough for her. You don't actually owe her any of your time, but you are obviously very kind and want to help her. Also sometimes we do things we don't want to do, but we would feel guilty if we didn't. If this is your motivation for helping her it can be exhausting. Look after yourself and speak to your siblings.

Best wishes

Theresa

My mother did the same. She told everyone that I did nothing to help her, when she would just sit and get me or, sometimes my brother, to do or get everything for her. One day someone said to my grandmother that I did nothing to help my mother. My grandmother said that 'it wasn't true, that the daughter does all the housework.'

Carol

I understand how hurt you must be, but this is obviously how your mother thinks, probably without even thinking about what she's saying. We all have our victim card to play when we feel aggrieved and it seems your mother has her card taped to her head! We can all speak without thinking, but a word, once said, cannot be unsaid, so I would advise you see her in other company, if possible, to distract her from her now normally grumpy behaviour.

Welcome to your monthly hair dot com

By Beth Underhill

Each month I look forward to sharing my knowledge of hair care with you. As a Vocational Trainer and Assessor for the examiners SCOTVEC and as a salon owner for over 30 years, my passion is the science of hair and how to respect it using salon chemicals.

I will be giving you some useful tips and advice on how you can protect and care for your hair and how to make the most of your crowning glory.

Q) ARE ALL SHAMPOOS THE SAME?

A) No, all shampoos are not the same. There are many ingredients in a shampoo which can change the way it works on your hair. The main ingredients in shampoo is water. Water usually takes up the largest amount of a shampoo's formula. This is an essential ingredient as it helps blend all the other ingredients together, and it also serves as a hydrating ingredient. Then there are sulphates known as sodium laureth sulphate, ammonium lauryl sulphate and sodium trideceth sulphate. They are what creates a lather to cleanse the hair and scalp.

It takes some knowledge to work out what all the ingredients actually mean on the back of a bottle of shampoo and might make you wish that you had never looked in the first place.

The choices of shampoos and conditioners are endless, but they all do the same thing, cleanse your hair but with slight variations.

Everyone's hair is made of exactly the same stuff, the way it behaves varies from person to person. This is why there are so many options out there. What works for someone with greasy thin hair will not work for someone with dry thick hair. I personally like to recommend something to sort out a problem with the scalp (if there is one) before I recommend a shampoo for problematic hair. If the scalp is in good condition then we can deal with the hair whether it be curly, straight, coarse or even chemically treated.

We are likely to blame the brand for making a bad shampoo if we buy a shampoo for oily hair, then after washing a few times, finding your hair is stripped of too much oil, leaving it hard to manage and feeling a bit brittle. The problem could be down to other shampoo routines such as massaging the scalp too vigorously or the water being too hot causing the sebaceous gland to be over productive.

The cheapest shampoos are mostly just detergents that remove the oil from your hair. More expensive brands typically add other ingredients that make your hair feel nicer and easier to manage after it's washed. Using a conditioner after shampooing for those with drier hair is a real help.

Other ingredients that are found in shampoos are :

- * Conditioners to give the hair shine
- * Opacifiers to give a creamy, luxury feel
- * Thickeners
- * Sequestering agents to prevent scum forming
- * Preservatives for shelf life
- * Special additives, depending on what hair type the shampoo is for
- * Fragrances

Finding the right shampoo for you depends on your hair type and what you want it to do — the most personalised products are sold through salons where a hairdresser can help you choose. He or she will recommend a shampoo for your hair and scalp type, they will want to achieve the most from your hair to enable them to work with it. The shampoos they sell in the supermarkets tends to be more generic.

How much you spend, how often you wash and even if you wash your hair is all up to you and what you want.

I hope you have found this helpful. I look forward to many more questions in the future.

Book review : "True Grit" by Charles Portis

Lots of people will be familiar with the story of "True Grit" from the two films made of that name but very few know the book which was the original source of the story and to me is the best form of the story.

It surprised me to learn that the book was only written in 1968 because the atmosphere, setting and characterisation bring so clearly to mind the 1870s wild west it portrays. The narrator is a tough, self-confident 14 year old girl called Mattie Ross and it is her voice we hear so clearly, her character that plays such an important part of the story. Everything that happens is described simply and matter of factly as if this was ordinary life but what the author has created is a story and a heroine of mythical stature.

The story begins with the journey of rancher Frank Ross and the hired man, Tom Chaney to buy some ponies in Fort Smith, Arkansas. Chaney kills Ross after getting drunk and losing his money at cards and he rides off into the badlands of the Indian Territory to escape justice and having robbed the body of his employer. Mattie arrives in Fort Smith to arrange for the body to be taken home for burial and determined to employ a federal marshal to travel into the Indian Territory to arrest Chaney and return him for trial and hanging. She hears of one such marshal, Rooster Cogburn who has a ferocious reputation and a venal nature and who might be persuaded to undertake this dangerous task for a large reward. He is employed to bring back Chaney and sets off to do so with LaBoeuf, a Texas

Ranger also pursuing Chaney for a large reward and joined by Mattie, who wants to be sure her money is properly earned but is initially unwanted by the two lawmen.

This is not a long book and the language and tone is simple and matter of fact. However, the story and characterisation are so compelling that it is a book that lingers in the mind and I find myself returning to it every year or two. After its publication it became a set text for secondary pupils in some American states and was soon turned into a softened, civilised screenplay tailored to suit a curmudgeonly John Wayne as Rooster Cogburn, the role for which he won his Oscar. Do not be misled by this portrayal of the story as there is nothing soft or comfortable about it. The film made in 2010 by the Coen brothers is much closer to the original tone and material, being hard edged, brutal and, at times, unintentionally funny but it is the book itself which best tells the story of Mattie Ross and Rooster Cogburn and their epic quest for justice. I highly recommend it.

International Women's Day 2023

To celebrate International Women's Day 2023, in partnership with Mojácar Town Hall, DCM, Platino Gym and Los Bandidos, a run, jog and walk was organized along the Paseo in Mojácar.

The event raised 897€ for the local branch of the Red Cross in Mojácar.

280 people entered, and trophies were awarded to the top three in the male and female categories.

Steve Murton, representing Los Bandidos, was the first person over the line.

It was a very warm day, but water and food, donated by the Town Council and Red Cross, were plentiful, including a giant paella.

Everyone who attended enjoyed the well organized event.

It's hoped more events will take place in Mojácar in the future.

Los Bandidos was set up in June 2018 with a small group running the 5k Mojácar Paseo, and now has road cycling, sea swimming and triathlon groups. All ages, nationalities and speeds are welcome, whether permanent residents or holiday makers.
