The Advertiser Magazine

THE Advertiser Magazine is published every month, except for January. It is bursting with useful adverts for a broad range of businesses located in Mojacar, Garrucha, Vera Playa, Antas, Los Gallardos, Bedar, Turre, Albox, Alfoquia and Zurgena.

Hugely popular with readers, the magazine is known for its photographic reporting of local events. It also contains articles written by the local community, for the local community.

A minimum of 5,000 copies of the advertiser are printed each and every month and delivered to over 200 local distribution points as well as to all of our advertisers.

The Advertiser magazine is also available to download from our website www.advertisermojacar.com and approximately 2,500 downloads are recorded each month.

This means that you can always get a copy.

To advertise please get in touch using the details below.

Welcome

to November's issue of the Advertiser Magazine

We are thrilled to welcome you to another exciting edition of The Advertiser Magazine!

As the first rays of the new month's sun peek over the horizon, we aim to be your trusted companion in the pursuit of knowledge, inspiration, and entertainment.

This month, we kick off our issue with a special note of celebration. The 1st of the month is not just any ordinary day; it's a national holiday! It's all saint's day and traditionally, it's a day for Spanish people to visit the local cemetery to honour their loved ones who have passed.

Our dedicated team of writers, photographers, and designers has worked tirelessly this month to bring you all of the articles you love. There are several pages of photos of a local charity event as well as our book review, the problem page, the recipe page and much more.

Furthermore, we're excited to introduce new articles, all aimed at making your reading experience richer and more enjoyable. As always, we encourage your feedback and suggestions. This magazine is your platform, and your opinions matter.

Thank you for choosing The Advertiser Magazine and have a wonderful November.

Happy reading!

Andrew & Cheryl

PASEO DEL MEDITERRANEO 213, PLAYA MOJACAR

Sometimes you just want a taste of "home" and with autumn being my favourite season back in the UK, I thought I would share some lovely seasonal recipes that are on this month's specials back at my Sister's cafe Mama Feel-goods near Canterbury. Watch out for the caramel Apple cake on our Afternoon Teas at La Meseta this month!

CHICKEN AND LEEK GRATIN

Ingredients:

50g butter
500g boneless, skinless chicken thighs, cut in 1½in cubes
2 large leeks, trimmed and sliced
150ml cider
1 heaped tsp Dijon mustard
1 tsp soy sauce
¼ tsp smoked paprika, sweet or hot, plus a little extra for sprinkling
300ml double cream
100g fresh breadcrumbs
50g cheddar, grated
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Method:

Preheat the oven to 200C/180C Fan/Gas 6. In a large casserole dish on a medium heat, melt half the butter and fry the chicken until golden-brown. Remove from the pan and transfer to a plate.

Add the leeks and the remaining butter to the pan and cook over a low heat until softened without colouring. Then add the cider, mustard, soy sauce, smoked paprika, cream, ½ teaspoon salt and a grind of pepper. Bring to a boil for 2–3 minutes or until thickened and well combined.

Add the chicken back to the pan along with any juices and stir together to heat through. Transfer to an ovenproof dish (approximately 26x20cm or a round 23cm diameter dish). Mix the breadcrumbs with the grated cheddar and sprinkle over the top. Bake for 20 minutes or until bubbling.

CARAMEL APPLE CAKE

Ingredients:

For the cake
500g sharp green apples, peeled and chopped into 2cm pieces
Zest and juice of 1 lemon
225g soft unsalted butter
225g soft brown sugar
3 large eggs, lightly beaten
200g self-raising flour
2 tsp baking powder
50g ground almonds
1 tsp mixed spice
Jar of apple sauce (for the filling)
Fudge pieces to decorate

CARAMEL BUTTERCREAM

Ingredients:

100g soft unsalted butter
200g icing sugar, sifted
2 tbsp caramel (from a tin or jar)
1 tbsp semi-skimmed milk

Method:

Preheat the oven to 180°C, fan 160°C, gas 4. Grease and line 2 x 20cm loose-bottomed round sandwich tins.

Toss the apple pieces in the lemon juice; put to one side. In a large bowl, beat the soft butter, sugar and lemon zest, then gradually add the eggs, mixing well between each addition. Fold in the flour, baking powder, almonds and mixed spice.

Drain the apple pieces and stir into the mixture. Divide equally between the tins. Bake for 25–30 minutes.

Remove the cakes from the oven and leave to cool in the tins for 10 minutes, then turn out onto a wire rack to cool completely.

To make the caramel buttercream, beat all the ingredients together until combined.

To assemble, spread the apple sauce on one of the sponge layers. Spread the other layer with the caramel buttercream and sandwich together. Spread the top of the cake with some more caramel sauce and decorate with fudge pieces. Then pop the kettle on and cut yourself a large slice!

just for laughs

I was in my garden when I got the news that my father had fallen from a 20 feet ladder and was in the hospital. I rushed to the hospital expecting that my father had some major fractures, but he was alright except for some minor cuts. When I told him that it was a miracle, he disagreed and told me, "Son, I had just fallen from the first step of the ladder."

An eight-year old boy had never spoken a word. One afternoon, as he sat eating his lunch he turned to his mother and said, "The soup is cold." His astonished mother exclaimed, "Son, I've waited so long to hear you speak. But all these years you never said a thing. Why haven't you spoken before?" The boy looked at her and replied, "Up until now, everything has been satisfactory."

A Horse Walks into a Bar... He approaches the bartender and says, "If there is a triangle with three sides labeled x, y, and z, and x and z are perpendicular to each other, which side is the hypotenuse?" The bartender thinks for a moment, then replies, "Y, the long face."

I had visited a cafe one day with my friends. The waiter recommended that we try their special coffee. We agreed and soon the coffee arrived. As we drink the coffee, we realized that it tastes like dirt and mud. Disgusted by the fact, all of us complained immediately. The alarmed waiter rushes over and says, "Well Sir, it was freshly ground coffee!"

400 passengers but only 200 meals were loaded onto a flight from Delhi to New York City. It was only discovered after take off, when the flight attendants started going through their preparations for the meals. So, the airline had bungled, and the crew was in a fix. However, one smart flight attendant had an idea. A couple of hours into the flight she nervously announced, "Ladies and gentleman; we don't know how this happened, but we have over 400 people on board, but only 200 dinners. Anyone who is kind enough to give up their meal to someone else, will receive unlimited free liquor for the duration of the flight!" Her next announcement came six hours later: "Ladies and gentlemen, if anyone wants to change their mind, we still have 180 dinners available."

Once during an adventure, a farmer named Bryan Clay stumbled into a cave and found a magic lamp. Upon rubbing the lamp, a Genie appeared and asked him what his wish was. The farmer told him that he wished he were very rich. The Genie said okay and asked him, "Alright Mr. Very Rich Clay, what is your second wish?"

A fellow was walking along a country road when he came upon a farmer working in his field. The man called out to the farmer, "How long will it take me to get to the next town?" The farmer didn't answer. The guy waited a bit and then started walking again. After the man had gone about a hundred yards, the farmer yelled out "About 20 minutes!" "Thank you. But why didn't you tell me that when I asked you?" "Didn't know how fast you could walk".

After 5 long years of studying, a student comes rushing into Einstein's office shouting... "Sir, Sir, I finally understand your theory of Special Relativity!" Einstein rolls his eyes, "It's about time".

Kid going to his first day of school, he looks worried, his dad asks him, "What's wrong?" Nervous, the kid asks, "How long do I have to go to school for?" "Until you're 18", says the father. The kid nods, and thinks about this quietly. When they get to the front gates of the school, the kid says, "Dad, you will remember to come and get me when I'm 18, won't you?"

A Husband and Wife at Custody court. The judge looks sternly at the ex wife. Judge: "Why do you think you deserve custody of the child?" Ex wife: "I brought him into this world so I should have custody of him." Judge: "That is a simple yet good reason." Then the judge looks towards the Ex husband. Judge: "Why do you think you deserve custody of the child, sir?" The ex husband thought long and hard about his response, after a brief moment of silence, he replies, "If I put money into a Pepsi machine and a Pepsi comes out. Is it mine or the machines?"

Two campers are walking through the woods when a huge brown bear suddenly appears in the clearing about 50 feet in front of them. The bear sees the campers and begins to head toward them. The first guy drops his backpack, digs out a pair of sneakers, and frantically begins to put them on. The second guy says, "What are you doing? Sneakers won't help you outrun that bear." "I don't need to outrun the bear", the first guy says. "I just need to outrun you."

COMMUNITY NEWS

The Mods and Rockers event took place on Saturday the 7th of October at Tito's Mojacar.

The event, which was in support of the Vera Lions, was very well attended.

The total amount raised was 2478€.

Well done to all of the hard working organisers.

With special thanks to Jackie Miles Kirby.

LifeStyle

Put the Phone Down: Embrace the “Time-Sucker”

Can we still call that thing that you sling in your handbag or drop in your pockets a “phone”? Well, if you look at the amount of “actual” phone calls you have compared to the games, Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, and X (formerly known as... I’ve forgotten. So no one knows what X is) scrolling sessions, then, if you’re anything like me, that percentage is pretty much microscopic. Seriously, I think my phone sees more of my face on Candy Crush than in any actual conversation.

They probably should be known as a “Communication Device,” but that sounds so dull, it’s something that Bill Gates would come up with on a particularly uninspired day. “Pocket Computer Machine” is interesting, but its acronym is already taken, and we don’t want to start any nerd wars. My vote is firmly for “Time-Sucker.” After all, what better way to describe a device that sucks away precious minutes and hours of your life? And if you end up talking to someone later today and you’re using lots of “Air-quotes,” you can blame me for pointing out the absurdity of it all!

SHH! I’M ON THE PHONE

Now picture this: we were sitting around after lunch as a family, watching a bit of TV, chatting about the events of the day before.

I had a strong point of view I was trying to convey to those family members that were obviously wrong (as usual), when I got shushed! And not just because my voice tends to make paint peel, mind you. Did I get shushed because my beloved was watching some super important news update on her phone? Nope, not even close.

It turns out she was watching a video of a dog that can skateboard, of all things. I mean, seriously, how is that more important than my impassioned speech about the proper way to stack the dishwasher? But there it was, the ultimate shushing, as if I was interrupting a live broadcast of the moon landing.

And here’s the kicker: she wasn’t even the only one. My teenage daughter was engrossed in some sort of virtual battle royale, which, to my untrained eye, looked like a bunch of stick figures punching each other. Meanwhile, my other daughter was deeply invested in a makeup tutorial that promised to transform her into a glamorous unicorn.

So, in my house, the term “phone call” has become something of an ancient relic, like handwritten letters or dial-up internet. It’s almost as if the phone part of the phone has become an afterthought, a relic of a bygone era when people actually used these devices to, you know, talk to each other.

In conclusion, let’s embrace the fact that our phones have become “Time-Suckers” of epic proportions. They may not be used for actual phone calls, but they sure know how to keep us entertained, distracted, and occasionally shushed during family gatherings. So, put the phone down (if you can tear yourself away from that riveting cat video), and let’s revel in the absurdity of it all. Who needs meaningful conversations when you can watch dogs on skateboards, right?

If you have any feedback for me, to dispute, argue, agree, support, harass or to pinch, flick me an email bradh_os@hotmail.com

OK Boomer: A Light-Hearted Look at Generational Differences

Generational gaps have always been a rich source of humour and exasperation. The age-old tussle between the Baby Boomers, Generation X, Millennials, and Gen Z has sparked countless memes and eye-rolling moments. So, let's take a light-hearted journey through the generational divide, exploring their stereotypical traits and, of course, settling the debate on which generation is the best (spoiler alert: it's Gen X).

BABY BOOMERS: THE OGS

The Baby Boomers, born between 1945 and 1960, are like the wise elders of the generational family. They grew up watching TV shows on the black-and-white box, walked uphill (both ways) to school, and didn't need Google to find their way around. Boomers often get flak for their supposed resistance to technology, but that's just because they're not sure if it's "hip" or "groovy." However, they did invent the internet (thanks, Al Gore), so they should get some credit.

Traits: Boomers are often associated with traditional values, a strong work ethic, and an affinity for big hair and bell-bottoms. They might not understand TikTok dances, but they know how to do the twist.

GENERATION X: THE LATCHKEY KIDS

Born between 1961 and 1980, Generation X finds itself somewhere between Boomers and the younger generations. Often called the "forgotten generation," they are the ones who could program a VCR but also embraced the digital age with open arms. They've been through grunge, cassette tapes, and MTV, which makes them an intriguing blend of old school and new cool.

Traits: Gen Xers are known for their independent streak, cynical sense of humour, and a love for '80s and '90s nostalgia. They might have "been there, done that," but they did it while listening to Nirvana.

MILLENNIALS: THE AVOCADO TOAST LOVERS

Born between 1981 and 1996, Millennials have taken the world by storm, or should we say, by meme. They witnessed the rise of the internet, transitioned from dial-up to Wi-Fi, and made acronyms like LOL and BRB mainstream. Gen X might have introduced them to the internet, but Millennials embraced it like a long-lost friend.

Traits: Millennials are known for their love of avocado toast, Harry Potter, and ironic humour. They value experiences over possessions, are tech-savvy, and have a knack for the selfie angle that makes them look slightly less unattractive.

GEN Z: THE DIGITAL NATIVES

Gen Z, born between 1997 and 2012, has grown up in a world where Wi-Fi is like oxygen, and smartphones are extensions of their hands. They are the kings and queens of memes, influencers, and cancel culture. In a way, they are what would happen if you poured Gen X's scepticism and Millennials' tech-savviness into a digital blender.

Traits: Gen Z is known for its passion for social justice, love of viral challenges, and obsession with memes that make everyone older than 25 scratch their heads. They have the world at their fingertips, but they're not afraid to challenge the status quo, often with a snappy "OK Boomer."

SO, WHO'S THE BEST? GEN X, DUH!

Now that we've explored the quirks and idiosyncrasies of each generation, it's time to settle the age-old debate. Who's the best generation? Well, it's got to be Generation X, of course! Why? Let's break it down:

1. Balance: Gen X grew up in a world where they knew life before and after the internet, and they've found a way to balance the two. They appreciate analogue and digital, recognizing the value of both.
2. Nostalgia: Gen X has the best of both worlds when it comes to nostalgia. They can wax poetic about vinyl records and also reminisce about the thrill of dial-up internet. Their '80s and '90s memories are unmatched.

3. Sceptical Optimism: Gen Xers are the masters of sarcasm and humour, but beneath the cynicism, they often harbour a sense of hopeful realism. They've seen the ups and downs and know how to navigate life's twists and turns.

4. Leadership: Gen X is quietly taking the reins in the workplace and politics. They've learned from both Boomers and Millennials, bringing a pragmatic approach to leadership that's much-needed in today's world.

In reality, the generational divide is more about fun stereotypes and light-hearted ribbing than anything else. Each generation has its unique strengths, and they've all contributed in their own way to shaping the world. So, instead of squabbling about who's the best, maybe we should just appreciate the humour and wisdom each generation brings to the table. After all, we're all just trying to navigate this crazy journey called life, one meme at a time.

Welcome to your monthly hair dot com

Each month I am looking forward to sharing my knowledge of hair care with you. As a Vocational Trainer and Assessor for the examiners SCOTVEC and a salon owner for over 30 years, my passion is the science of hair and how to respect it using salon chemicals.

I will be giving you some useful tips and advice on how you can protect and care for your hair and how to make the most of your crowning glory.

Q) WHY IS MY HAIR SO GREASY JUST ONE DAY AFTER WASHING IT?

A) Our skin is covered in tiny pores, also called hair follicles. The hair follicles surround the root and strand of the hair within. Most of these hair follicles also contain the sebaceous glands, the glands that produce oil. This oil keeps the skin and hair healthy, moisturised and waterproof. It also helps prevent skin infections. These sebaceous glands are all over our body apart from the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet.

Some people genetically produce more sebum than others. As we age we produce less sebum. However, certain factors can encourage our glands to produce more sebum than is necessary by over stimulation. Oil near the roots can build up to a visible level in less than a 24-hour time span.

This build up can also cause an itchy scalp.

In my experience, people with fine hair notice the oil more quickly than people with thicker hair, this is probably because people with fine hair don't have as much hair to soak up that oil.

Some factors that can cause oily hair:-

- 1) Hormones
- 2) Stress

- 3) Poor diet
- 4) Medication
- 5) Product build up
- 6) Over washing your hair
- 7) Not rinsing the hair properly
- 8) Washing your hair with hot water that is too hot
- 9) Excessive scalp massaging whilst washing your hair
- 10) Rapid change in body temperature
- 11) Humidity
- 12) Overuse of hair products

To combat the grease you firstly need to find out what is causing your sebaceous glands to overproduce sebum.

Some tips on combating greasy hair

- 1) When washing your hair make sure the water is not too hot
- 2) Do not massage too vigorously, a light massage should be sufficient
- 3) Use a dry shampoo if possible, this will soak up the grease
- 4) If you do not like using dry shampoos use a shampoo for greasy hair
- 5) Wash your hair once a week, twice at most
- 6) Ensure that you rinse your hair thoroughly after washing
- 7) Only condition the mid lengths and ends of your hair
- 8) Brush your hair to encourage the sebum to work towards the ends of the hair, sebum is one of the best natural conditioners.

I hope this has helped and I look forward to many more of your questions.

What's the problem

At the Advertiser magazine, we recognise that everyone needs to reach out for advice now and then. Seeking the help of someone who can not only offer a completely objective point of view but, is also qualified to advise you, may not always be possible.

We are delighted to be able to offer the services of a qualified counsellor and psychotherapist, Theresa Wood, to answer any of our readers issues or problems.

Dear Theresa

I'm in my early 60's and live alone. I was at a party for a friend's daughter and a younger man was flirting with me. I told him not to be silly because of our age difference but he said I was beautiful and we really did get on well. He came to my house to see me and over the weeks he has practically moved in. He said at the beginning that he was waiting on a job that was starting but it doesn't seem to have happened. I have been lending him money until he starts his job, I didn't mind but he is asking for more every week now and making me feel guilty if I even ask what it's for. My bank account is going down rapidly. I don't know how to stop it now. Any suggestions would be welcome. Please don't say I'm an old fool, I feel bad enough.

Sylvia

Hi Sylvia

I wouldn't dream of saying that to anyone. Your intentions since the start of this relationship have been good. You have opened your home to this man and helped him out as much as possible. In other words you have put a lot into it. I'm not sure that his intentions from the beginning have been good. If you imagine you are sitting at either end of a table from each other. What has he put on the table towards the relationship and what have you put on it. Whatever your feelings for him you must stop paying him money, that is not the basis for any relationship. If you are in any doubt that he is not just after money then say no and see what happens. If he truly has feelings for you it won't be an issue, I know you don't want to be alone again we naturally as humans want to be in a couple, but this man will deplete you financially and emotionally. Take care Theresa

Firstly, you're not a fool, you've been subjected to a con by a con artist! He is the problem, not you. Don't feel bad, don't feel guilty, tell him he needs to leave. If you don't feel safe or confident enough, is there a friend you can ask to be there when you do it? Do the people from the party where you met him know him, will they support you to get him to move on? Guardia civil or police will also assist if you feel you are subject to fraud/exploitation.

Beannie

This sounds like you have been very deliberately groomed for money. Please set yourself some firm boundaries, which is easier said than done when you have feelings for someone. Please don't give him any more money, but judge how safe you are and whether he may kick off when you tell him that you can give him no more. Ideally tell him over a coffee or meal in a public place, so that any initial anger will be dissipated by being in front of others. Feel free to talk this over with CAAG, the Campaign Against Adult Grooming, who offer a listening service and may be able to help you find the strategy that works for you.

Cariatiz

Age is nothing to do with it. Think we are all guilty of allowing people to take advantage of us at some point in our lives. Be it friends, family or a relationship. You are no fool as you recognise this is becoming a problem..I think a honest conversation explaining you can't afford to keep subsidising him and that you feel you need some space . Hope he is reasonable and will except and respect your wishes. If he doesn't get some support around you. Good luck.x

Nikki

If you ask him to collect his belongings and move out, you can always have a couple of friends in the house when he does so.

If he reacts badly, you can always call the police to assist with his removal.

Queenie

Sounds like a young gigolo ..tell him to sling his hook ..not worth it he will continue to fleece you.

Julie

Classic charmer syndrome. Unfortunately, living alone can be lonely and difficult. Somebody pays us attention, and we feel young and flattered. These creeps know exactly what they're doing...and they know exactly what buttons to press. Please don't ever feel silly. They're users and abusers...but cut your losses and kick him out into the gutter, where he belongs. Please Do NOT be alone when you do this. I'm sure your local Guardia will help you. Best wishes to you.

Collette

Stop giving him money - you know what's happening and he is taking advantage of you - stop now, throw him out, have a good cry and get your pride back - do what's right for you not him. Janice

Get him out of your life. He is a chancer and has probably done this, or worse, before. Don't be foolish and don't give him another penny of your money.

Anne

You have to start looking after yourself. Sadly, there are quite a few men who prey on women. I am not saying he does not find you attractive. I just think he has moved in very quickly and your bank account is depleting. How much do you care for him? My advice would be to drop him. But I also think that will be hard for you. Put yourself first in this situation. Maybe have someone around or go to a public place.

Sticks & Stones may break your bones, but ours will NEVER hurt you.

Generally, massages can promote the feeling of well being and relaxation, and are sometimes considered a luxury. However, there are nearly a million academic papers related to research outlining the benefits of massage. One of these massage treatments is thermotherapy or heat therapy.

So what is thermotherapy?

Thermotherapy is all about the application of gentle heat, applied during massage with warm bamboo canes, hot stones, poultices etc.

It is known to accelerate recovery and healing with some doctors recommending it to patients suffering arthritis, rheumatism, chronic pain and injury.

The body thrives on heat which is why we usually feel better when the weather is warmer.

Heat therapy, which is a non invasive technique, is used to increase oxygen and blood flow through the body to addresses pain, heal damaged tissues and alleviate stiffness.

How is heat therapy applied and what are the key benefits?

Unique to VaVa Heath & Wellness, our new thermotherapy treatment with warm bamboo cane massage is the combination of different lengths and widths of warm bamboo canes with oils using massage strokes, which can benefit all areas of the body.

This therapy is a deeply relaxing and healing treatment and is particularly effective for those suffering from rheumatoid arthritis, joint pain, stiff muscles, deep tissue injuries and muscle spasms.

Another treatment exclusive to VaVa Yoga, Health & Wellness is our 'Sticks & Stones' massage therapy combining warm bamboo canes, hot stones & warm essential oils.

This 'Sticks & Stones' treatment is one of a kind.

At VaVa Yoga, Health & Wellness, we specialise in managing pain and stress, the biggest problems that we most often address. You can scan this QR code or hop onto our redesigned website at www.vavayoga.com, to find the treatment that's perfect for you.

Intravenous drip vitamin therapy

Intravenous (IV) vitamin therapy (also known as intravenous micronutrient therapy and hydration therapy) is a way to give high concentrations of vitamins and minerals directly into the bloodstream, allowing rapid absorption of higher doses of the vitamins and minerals than if the person got them through food or supplements.

Benefits of IV vitamin therapy

Vitamin therapy helps patients to prevent illnesses and get better protection against flu viruses.

It can help metabolise food to promote optimal energy levels, help create the chemicals necessary for supporting normal neurological function, improve heart health, increase brain performance, help maintain your central nervous system, enhance vision, reduce the risk of anemia, and decrease anxiety and depression.

Vitamin C is known for its power to strengthen the immune system and fight stress, while vitamin B12 promotes cellular repair and contributes to healthy blood and nervous system function.

Vitamin infusions improve your health and well-being, helping to boost energy and the immune system, stave off stomach flu, hangovers and dehydration.

Glutathione is a substance found in cells, it prevents premature aging, protects against cancer and neurological diseases.

Glutathione (TAD) is an antioxidant and neutralizes free radicals. It is recommended for athletes, people with work disorders and damage to the liver or pancreas, chronic fatigue or stress, and to those being treated with chemotherapy and radiotherapy.

Are intravenous infusions safe?

The therapy is safe and guarantees the desired effect in a personalised way.

The composition of TAD Glutathione drip:

Vitamin A: supports the regeneration of a weakened body.

Magnesium: determines the proper functioning of muscles.

B vitamins: supports the work of the nervous system.

Vitamin C: Ascorbic acid is involved in the metabolism of fats.

Vitamin E: improves blood flow.

Vitamin D: reduces the risk of bone fractures.

What is the procedure?

The patient makes themselves comfortable, and the specialist connects the vitamin drip.

The procedure usually takes between 30 and 50 minutes.

What is the difference between IV therapy (vitamins cocktails) and normal vitamins?

One of the biggest benefits of IV therapy is simply how efficient it is. When you consume nutrients orally, they have to go through your digestive system and metabolise before your body can use them. It's a slow process and the reality is that orally consumed vitamins are around 50% bioavailable.

Complex Vitamin B, B1, B2, B3, B5, B6 is a whole set of vitamins that dissolve well in water, are removed with sweat or urine and participate in the processes of matrix metabolism.

They help in the absorption of carbohydrates, support the functioning of the nervous system and necessary for a functioning circulatory system.

Infusions have an immediate effect as they bypass the digestive system, so the losses are minimal.

Glutathione improves the body's degreasing process, supports the immune system, helps maintain proper body weight, takes part in regeneration and thus reduces inflammation and protects against stress.

Coenzyme Q-10 plays a key role in energy production, antioxidant activity, immune system support and in the production of ATP, the main source of energy for cells. The anti-oxidant neutralizes free radicals that are formed as a result of metabolic processes and support for the cardiovascular system.

BOOK REVIEW

Fatwa: Living with a Death Threat

BY JACKY TREVANE

A remarkable and powerful account of one woman's courage and resilience in the face of an unimaginable challenge. This local author's memoir is an inspiring and eye-opening journey through the terrifying world of extremism and the unwavering determination to live a life free from fear.

Jacky's writing is both engaging and heartfelt, drawing readers into her harrowing experiences from the very first page. Her ability to convey the emotions and thoughts she endured during the darkest times of her life is nothing short of remarkable. You can't help but become deeply invested in her story, feeling her fear, anger, and ultimately, her unwavering strength.

What sets "Fatwa" apart is the raw honesty with which Jacky shares her experiences. She doesn't sugarcoat anything; instead, she invites us to walk in her shoes and see the world through her eyes. Her willingness to expose the vulnerabilities and the emotional toll that living under a death threat exacts on her is incredibly moving. It's a testament to her bravery and resilience that she can share such a personal and painful story with such unwavering candor.

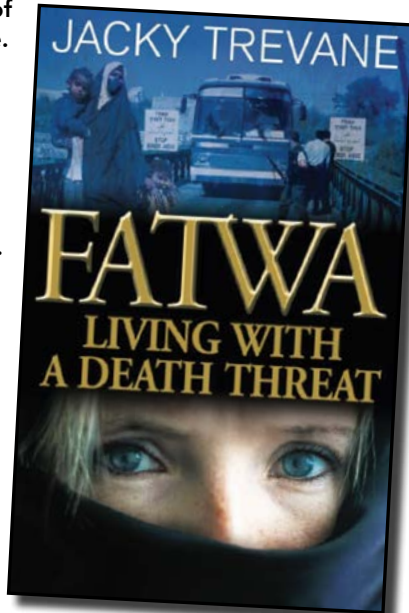

The narrative is not only an exploration of fear but also a celebration of freedom, courage, and the human spirit. Jacky's determination to live life on her terms, despite the ever-present threat hanging over her, is truly inspiring. She illustrates how even in the darkest times, we can find the strength to fight for our beliefs and our right to live without fear.

Additionally, "Fatwa" provides essential insights into the broader issue of radicalism and the impact it has on individuals and communities. Jacky's account is a stark reminder of the importance of addressing extremism and promoting tolerance and understanding in our world.

In the end, "Fatwa: Living with a Death Threat" is an extraordinary and thought-provoking book that captivates readers with its compelling narrative and inspiring message. Jacky's story is not just a testament to her strength, but a call to action for all of us to stand up against domestic violence. This local author's memoir is a must-read, and her journey will undoubtedly leave an indelible mark on your heart and mind.

This is not a book to begin reading unless you have many hours to properly enjoy it. You will be hooked from the first page. Upon finishing this book, I wanted to hear more from Jacky. I wasn't quite ready to let her go. Luckily, I didn't have to. Watch this space for further reviews of Jacky's work.
